REGENTS INCREASE CAPITAL OUTLAY REQUEST

The NU Board of Regents worked mostly with their ears Saturday as they listened to several presentations on a number of subjects. Action taken on business matters was relatively uneventful.

A major consideration expected to be handled by the board was a proposal by the Associated Students and the Resident Housing Association in Lincoln for liberalized coed visitation and alcohol consumption at the UN-L dorms. The topic was discussed by UN-L Chancellor Zumberge, but action on the matter was delayed until the April meeting.

'Generally Supportive'

Zumberge had said the requests were based on the new age of majority and the idea that proposed rate increases in the dorms should be accompanied by increased privileges. Zumberge stated that he was "generally supportive of the idea." He mentioned that the issue should be held for a month since "there has been no decision and opinion is divided as of yet."

Two UN-L students who were on the agenda to speak on the matter decided to hold their comments until the Regents could afford them more time and produce some action on their proposal.

Immediately following the postponement of the matter, about 70 students who had attended the meeting to support the proposal left their seats and did not stay for the rest of the meeting. Regent Edward Schwartzkopf remarked that students are protesting for more student representation on the board, but as soon as something comes up that doesn't interest them, they leave.

New Committee

Earlier in the meeting, Regent

Prokop asked for a new standing committee of the board that would serve athletics on the NU campuses.

President Varner replied to the motion by saying, "I'm very enthused about athletics, but I'm more enthused about academics ... If we're going to have additional committees, I think academics should be included."

The motion for the new committee was tabled.

Senate Rejects 80% of Exec Committee Removals

By Kris Grady

The Student Senate underwent an attempt at housecleaning Thursday night, much to the chagrin of some members.

Senator Tom O'Neill was removed from his Arts and Science seat on a ruling that he was not a student in good standing last semester. He carried three hours of classes, two short of the number required for eligibility in campus activities by university policy.

However, there was some question over the definition of good standing. According to O'Neill, a student is in good standing if he is enrolled and not on academic or disciplinary probation.

'Denies Participation'

The five-hour eligibility requirement for campus activities "has never been enforced because it's illegal," said O'Neill. "It denies participation by those paying fees." Student Body Vice-President, Mary Wees, said "It's ridiculous to say anybody taking three hours is not in good standing."

The student court will decide the eligibility question in two pending cases brought forth by John Malone and O'Neill.

The student court issued a restraining order on the executive committee who recommended O'Neill's removal. Their injunction was intended to prevent any action being taken against O'Neill until the meaning of good standing could be established.

However, some senators decided the injunction only applied to actions taken by the executive committee, not the speaker. They therefore asked Speaker J. C. Casper to make a ruling on the issue. Casper said he didn't have the eligibility to rule and urged the senate to appeal the decision of the chair. He said O'Neill had violated the five-hour rule "when it was in effect," and so he must rule that O'Neill was ineligible to hold his senate seat.

The decision of the chair was sustained 12-8.

O'Neill said, "The senate doesn't have the power to interpret the constitution or remove any senator for reasons other than impeachment." A senator can only be impeached for non-attendance and gross malfeasance of duty.

Action was also brought against Heshimu Iverri, Arts and Science senator, by the executive committee for lack of good standing status. When the committee met on Feb. 22, Vice-Chancellor Ronald Beer had reported that Iverri was on academic probation with a .4 grade average, and that O'Neill did not carry enough hours to qualify for office, said Casper. The executive committee then ruled the two off the senate subject to senate approval.

"By the next Thursday (of the senate meeting) O'Neill said Beer reversed his decision on both," said Casper. "He said you can't determine from the handbook whether Tom is on or not."

What is status?

As for Iverri, no one was able to determine exactly what his academic status is. Iverri said he dropped from school last semester, his first at UNO, and so he was not on probation. However, Beer stated in a letter that Iverri was on academic probation, and then later said his status was uncertain.

Currently, Iverri's instructors from last semester are being asked if he attended enough classes to warrant an "F" or Withdrawal. Casper claimed, "You can't take six hours and get a .4 grade point."

In addition, Iverri said his transcript from Creighton University would raise his grade point average. In his senate application he said he had a 3.3 accumulative grade point. However, according to Casper, "the administration couldn't find any transcripts."

"In my estimation," said Casper, "the administration curled up and died when this issue hit them."

The issue was tabled for two weeks for further investigation by the student affairs committee and the speaker.

Two other senators were also examined by the executive committee for being on academic probation previously. Casper and Sue Hale, however, were allowed to stay on the senate because, according to the committee report, "Status during the summer does not pertain to student senators." Both senators claimed they were removed from probation before the summer ended. The committee recommendation was approved by the senate.

Hale, McNeill, Adams Remain

Senate attendance also came under scrutiny. The executive committee recommended dropping Sue Hale, Kent McNeill and Fred Adams from their senate positions for excessive absences.

When the issue came up at the senate meeting, the Speaker stated it was the interpretation of the chair that no senator was in violation of the attendance requirement which allows for three excused and two unexcused absences. Casper said the latter ruling went into effect on October 12, and "we can deal only with those attendances since that date."

In other action, the senate recommended passage of LB 323 by the Nebraska Legislature which would provide for student representation on the Board of Regents. They came out against LB 362 which would make student fees voluntary, and also against the Governor's proposed tuition plan. They recommended the State Legislature adopt the budget as proposed by the Board of Regents with the exception of their tuition proposal. The senate supported the tuition plan as submitted by Dr. Petrowski concerning undergraduate proposals.

Room 301 in MBSC was also allocated for an IFO-Panhellenic office.

Cresap Report

A report was given by Glen Smith on the progress and implementation of recommendations made by the Cresap, McCormick and Paget Management Study conducted last year for the University.

The CMP study recommended upgrading of the accounting and budgeting systems, conversion to a centralized Computing Network, development of organizational objectives, some organizational structure changes, a clarification of the role of the System staff in management of nonacademic activities, and operating effectiveness through procedural improvement and staff adjustments.

The progress report indicated that progress was being made, but planning and procedural development were still suffering. The conclusion was that more funds would be needed to implement the recommendations as they should be. Mr. Smith said the University could save more than $120,000 each year if they could provide $600,000 now for implementation.

Health Service

After a lengthy report on a Health Service study done primarily for the Lincoln campus, UNO Chancellor Roskens was asked what plans were being made to continue our Health Services after the resignation of Dr. Smith at UNO becomes effective.

Roskens responded that a committee was now being formed to determine whether or not we could continue to provide services on campus or, to what extent, in conjunction with the Medical Center.

Capital Outlay Increases

An item that will not be welcomed in the legislative Appropriations Committee was a motion to add more than $3.6 million to the priority list for NU capital construction. The governor has already drastically reduced the amount NU requested in his recommendations to the Legislature. The Appropriations Committee is hearing debate on the governor's budget for capital construction this week.

NU had originally requested a total of $22.6 million. The total now stands at $26.4 million. The Exon budget would only grant $8.7 million in the area of capital construction.

The items that the Regents saw a need to add were a $2.5 million Central Utility Plant at UNO, $600,000 for renovation of a new facility for the Med Center's School of Nursing, and $780,000 for improvements in UNO's Fieldhouse and athletic facilities, including lights and astro-turf for the stadium.

Athletic Improvements

Regent Prokop had first proposed a $250,000 addition to the Capital outlay budget for lights and turf at UNO. He said the lights are needed at UNO to take the Mavericks out of time competition with the Cornhuskers. "When you have a Saturday afternoon with a game in Lincoln and one in Omaha, where will you go?" he asked the other Regents.

Chancellor Roskens said he appreciated the "interest and support to our athletic programs." He said with our limited land, the improved facilities could be put to a greatly expanded use. Roskens said the improvements would be "primarily for instructional, intramural, and recreational uses, not for athletics."

Roskens added that he thought the board should recognize all of the improvements that are included in a bill now before the unicameral by Senator Duke Snyder. Snyder's bill, to be considered separate from the University budget, would total around $780,000 and include Fieldhouse improvements.

Roskens added, "I'd appreciate it, if you're going to list it, to list it all." The board accepted the new items unrelated to the priority list.

Financial Aid Cuts

Vice-Chancellor Ronald Beer reported for UNO on the impact of Federal cutbacks on student loans and work-study grants. Details of this report will be included in Friday's Gateway.

Free Tuition

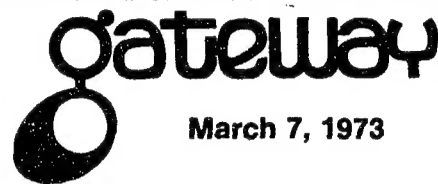

President Varner commented that State Senator Terry Carpenter should be commended for his unexpected presentation at the Appropriations Committee hearing last week on NU's operating budget. At the hearing, Carpenter said the state should be acting to eliminate tuition at the universities rather than increase them.

Varner said that Carpenter's view was both "courageous and refreshing." It brought back the concept that the responsibility to educate the population to the fullest extent was a "fundamental commitment." He said there seems to be a retrograde move away from higher education.

Varner concluded that "higher education is an invaluable ally" to the development of the nation. He said that each time tuition goes up, it violates the earlier conviction that all citizens should have the opportunity to gain a complete education.

Dorm Increase

A major item was the announcement of an $80 increase in the annual charge for UN-L dorm dwellers. Regent Moylan protested the increase saying the increase in resident halls combined with the increase in tuition would come close to pricing many students out of the educational market. Moylan said losses could be made up by promoting 100% occupancy by converting some units for married students, and by reducing the cost of other items. The board approved the increase with Moylan dissenting.

In an address to the senate Thursday night, Donna Iverri, wife of senator Heshimu Iverri, said the senate is "petty," and "hasn't responded to students."

She said she still wants to run for a seat, but feels she "is above color, prejudice, bigotry, and graft," which most of the senators are not.

These feelings, she maintains, have become manifest in the actions that have been taken against her husband recently on the senate. "My husband may not be personally aesthetic to you, but he's trying to do his job," she said, despite "harrassments."

Heshimu said the rumors that have been going around about him, such as he "murdered someone," are shallow-minded, and have nothing to do with my university activities. "Since I've been here I've attempted to conduct myself in a gentlemanly way," he said. He agreed with his wife that you must "judge individuals by their deeds and not the color of their skin."

Speaker J. C. Casper commented that Donna was "trying to build a fire under people bogged down with a lot of trivia."

Elections

Election of a new student President and Vice President will be staged the week before spring break. The deadline for filing for a ballot position is next Tuesday, March 13, at 4:00 p.m. The election will be held March 21, 22, and 23.

To compete on a President/Vice President slate, the students must be fulltime (12 hours undergraduate or 9 hours graduate), in good standing according to University regulations, and have completed at least 12 hours at UNO.

Applications Petitions are available in the Student Government Office, MBSC 232.

Notice Seniors

The deadline for the filing of applications for degrees has been moved up to March 15. The previously announced deadline of April 13 is no longer valid. All applications for degrees to be awarded this spring must be completed and returned to the Registrar's Office by one week from tomorrow.

In addition, the date of the Spring Commencement has been changed from May 19 to Friday evening, May 18. Seniors who expect to receive their diplomas at that time should take special note of this announcement.

Editorial

Compromised Rights

The Legislative Bill, to prohibit the collection and use of mandatory student fees is undergoing a few changes. Earlier the bill looked like a thinly disguised attempt to limit First Amendment rights on the public campuses. Now, the mask is being torn off to openly reveal the true intention of the legislation to keep speakers from expressing their diverse opinions before, innocent, gullible students.

Senator Dickinson, sponsor of LB 362, was publicly critical of UNO's decision in January to disallow evangelistic Athletics in Action wrestlers from giving a half-time show of open testimonials. He said the University has allowed radicals and sex deviants to openly preach on campus, but UNO would not permit fine Christian youth to express their beliefs.

With his "Perverts Allowed — Prophets Denied" observation, Dickinson wrote LB 362.

Senator George Syas of Omaha intends to amend Dickinson's bill to prohibit only the appropriations from student fees to support a speakers' program on the campuses. The Syas amendment would trim the fat and get to the meat of Dickinson's intentions.

Syas has said that he isn't concerned whether the speakers represent liberal views or conservative views. He claims to only want students protected from paying for things they don't attend or want to hear.

This amendment comes only a week or so after the Nebraska Supreme Court upheld the legality of the collection and spending of mandatory fees. The court's opinion was that the universities were natural settings for the open airing of public issues, and that student fees were indeed proper as the source of funding.

The next discouraging disclosure is that university officials seem willing to accept this amendment as a compromise to save the rest of the student funded activities.

In earlier statements against the intent of LB 362, NU President Varner told the Legislature's Education Committee that we all must pay for programs through taxes that at times we may not particularly agree with.

Varner said that if there was any way to prohibit the collection of fees and thus forbid speakers from appearing without infringing upon the guarantees of the First Amendment, that he would like to learn of that procedure. He added that LB 361 was not the answer.

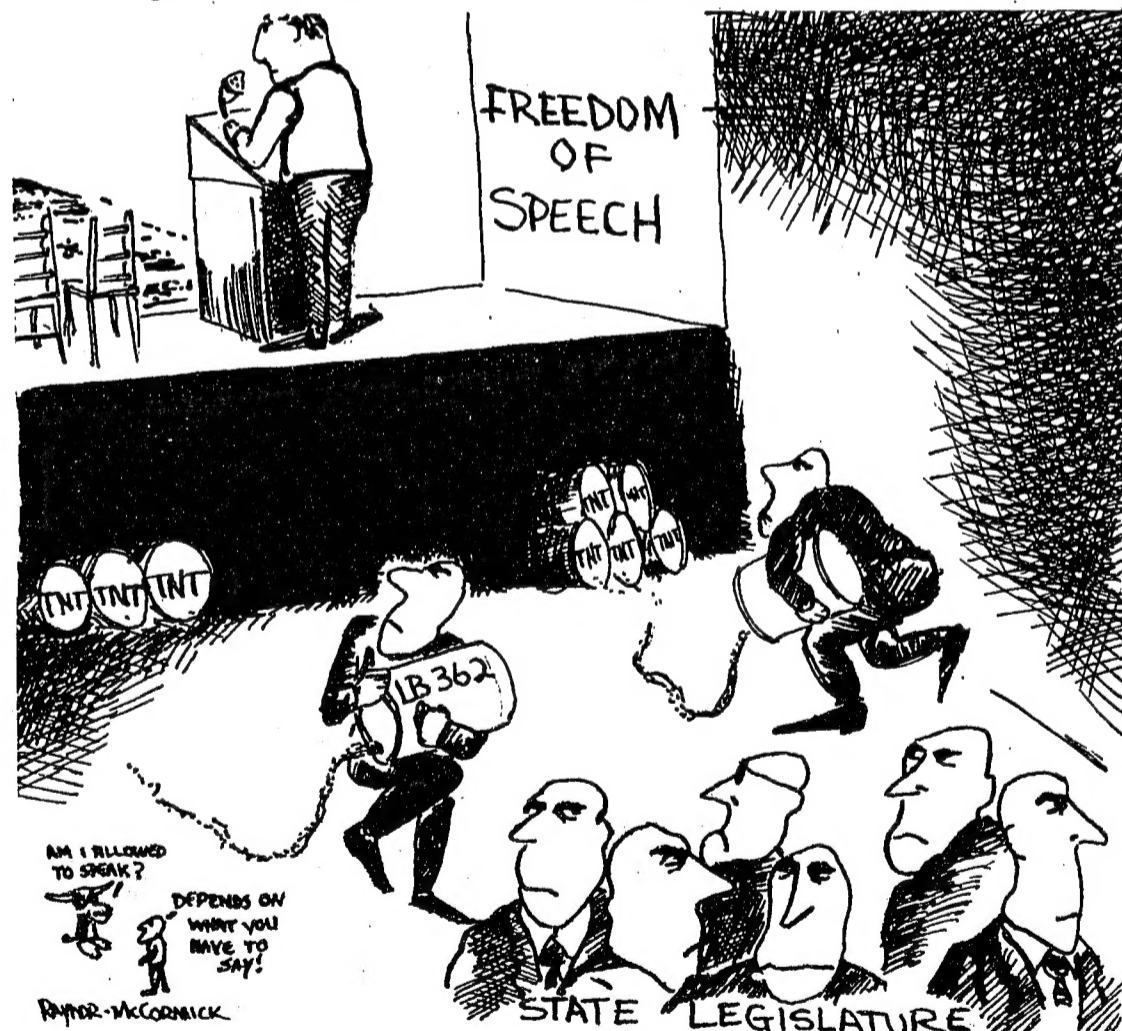

About Face! If the Syas Amendment is accepted with the concession of NU administrators, the earlier concern about protection of free speech will have been abandoned.

It is recognized that it is a concession that the administrators are not eager to accept, but the idea that such a compromise could even be considered seems unreasonable.

It would serve our purpose better in the long run if we could hold out on an "all or nothing" proposition. If we allow our first and most fundamental privilege to be compromised, it would be only a short time before other restrictions would replace previous rights.

It would be exceedingly proper for university administrators to ask for student input before continuing to politically manipulate the fees issue.

The failure to reverse this current chain of action may result in a "tongue-tied" university.

Room for More to NYC

There is still room available on the Fine Arts Tour to New York City during the spring break.

The total cost of the package, which includes round-trip transportation and hotel accommodations, is only $88.00.

Two busloads of art, drama, music, and "anyone interested" students, faculty, staff or whoever will leave for the big city on March 23.

The group will stay at the Picadilly Hotel, right off Broadway and Times Square in the heart of the theatre district. The tour rates are based on multiple-occupancy of four to a room. Arrangements can be made to have fewer per room for a slight additional charge.

Once in New York, the traveler is free to plan whatever activities he or she would enjoy doing. There's something for everybody.

The buses will return the out-of-towners to the Omaha homeland on March 31. Application forms are available in the art, music, and theatre departments. A $20.00 deposit must accompany the reservation. The balance of the cost is due on March 15.

For more information on the trip and in planning agendas for the week in New York, contact Robert Welk in Administration 219A.

Italy Today

Two information meetings will be held for students wanting to apply for this year's Experiment in International Living's scholarship trip to Italy. All expenses for the UNO student chosen will be paid.

The first meeting will be held TODAY, March 7 at 12:30 p.m. and the second is Tuesday, March 13 at 12:30 p.m.

Both meetings will be held in the new East conference room of the newly remodeled section of the MBSC, first floor.

A Good Cry

Ever wondered what cryogenics means?

Well, now that you're an adult, you can hear the whole sordid definition by Dr. Raymond Guenther at the Forum on Science, a leisure service offered by your local physics department.

The forum will be held this evening at 7:30 p.m. in the advanced physics lab (southwest corner of the Engineering Bldg.).

Christian Fellowship is in!

All students interested in having a deeper personal relationship with Jesus Christ are invited to meet in the chapel in the Student Center at 2:30 p.m. today.

UNO Republicans

Attention all UNO Young Republicans: convention time is here again! Delegates to the state Young Republican convention will be elected March 14. All paid members are eligible.

The convention will be held April 6, 7, and 8 at the New Tower Motel in Omaha.

For more information call Jim at 558-5426.

Shoot Trap

Tryouts for the UNO trapshooting team are tentatively scheduled for Sunday, March 25.

Eligibility requirements are current enrollment in good standing at UNO and your own equipment. Previous experience is helpful but not necessary so give it a try.

This is the trapshooting team's second year at UNO. Last year the team placed second under Wyoming State at the regionals and sixth out of 25 teams at the nationals. Only two of the five team members had previous experience.

For further information contact Dwayne Disney at 571-3715 or sign up at the information desk in the Student Center and you will be contacted.

Soul Traveling

Escankar Asost will be holding a series of discussions on the Science of Soul Travel and related subjects such as re-incarnation, planes of consciousness, Soul and Karma.

The first of these will be Wed., March 7 at 7:00 p.m. in the MBSC room 312A.

Real Estate

Rho Epsilon will meet Friday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the MBSC Tower Room. Ralph Scott of Western Securities will speak on industrial real estate.

Irish?

What is the problem in Northern Ireland today? What were its causes? Is there a possible solution? UNO's own resident Irish scholar, Dr. Robert Reilly, will answer these and other questions Wednesday March 14 in the MBSC second floor Ball Room at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Reilly, nationally known Irish authority, has authored several books and films on the Emerald Isle. If you're Irish or interested, plan to attend.

Name the Area

Suggestions are being taken for a name for the Coffee house area in the Milo Bail Student Center. Bring your idea, along with a brief explanation to MBSC 250.

Concerned

A group of students, faculty and staff concerned about the social injustices and oppression in today's society and interested in taking action about these injustices will meet today at noon.

The discussion will be held in MBSC 315. Anyone interested but unable to attend, contact Mike Gooch, 558-4601 or Greg Herek, 346-6711.

Naturalized Victtorica Recollects

By Rex Gardner

On Monday morning Lamberto Victtorica woke up a citizen of Mexico; that same night, after a swearing-in ceremony held in the judge's chambers at the Federal Building, Lamberto went to bed an American citizen.

In spite of the change in his political allegiance the UNO pre-med student still retains his office as vice-president of the International Students Club. It was at the Sunday meeting of the club that I met and talked to Victtorica about why he decided to become a naturalized American, to sever all civil obligations to Mexico, to find out what a change like this felt like.

Anti-climactic day

The change, one hesitates even to use the word because

Love is for tomorrow too.

with the applicator that can be filled up to one week in advance.

the ceremony of transferring allegiance from another country to the United States is simply an almost anti-climactic recital of the Pledge of Allegiance presided over by a Federal Court Judge, is no elaborate exotic rite of welcome as one might expect on such a profound occasion; not even musical accompaniment, just the murmur of many voices and the sight of upraised hands.

But after Lamberto and his fellow-once-upon-a-time aliens have finished, they can travel abroad under the protection of the American Eagle armed with his arrows, vote in the next election, run for President, if they so desire.

Lamberto, tall, dark and handsome, spoke with a slight accent. "I came to this country in 1966 and lived in Michigan," he said. "I had just graduated from Mexico's Polytechnic Institute and thought I would work on a master's degree in business but I changed my mind."

"It has been my lifelong dream to study medicine and I decided to go back instead to undergraduate school and study pre-medicine." He speaks carefully and fluently with the precision of a well-educated foreign man very concerned that he not be misunderstood.

Procedure involved

Lest anyone think that all it takes to become an American citizen (other than to be born to one or on American soil) is to make an appointment with a judge to pledge allegiance, there is a procedure involved and one that cannot be initiated until after the would-be citizen has lived in the United States continuously for five years.

To begin with, Lamberto was required to be examined for his knowledge of American customs and politics. He was asked such questions as who was the father of the Country? What is the Supreme Court? How many Stars and Stripes are there? Who is the President of the United States?

"If you listen to the radio, you should be able to answer these questions," Lamberto said. "That's how I learned them," he added with a smile.

If the examination is passed as was Lamberto's, the next step is an investigation into his background. The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Office delves into the future citizen's past, interviewing previous employers, teachers, landlords, and neighbors, all with an eye to determining the sort of reputation enjoyed by the immigrant.

If he has lived in the area for some time, his neighbors and employers will be asked to come down to the Naturalization Office for an actual interview, to testify that their friend or neighbor is someone they would care to call a fellow American.

In Lamberto's case, because he had lived in St. Louis where he was a district manager for Mobil Chemical Division of Mobil and in Michigan where he began his aborted study of business, the office required that he file notarized letters of reference from his previous boss and from former teachers.

Letters reviewed

These letters and other evidence from their investigation are then reviewed by officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. If they look good, as did Lamberto's, the office sets up an appointment, contacts the applicant, informs him that he will be interviewed on such and such date and would he please bring a witness or two, someone who can testify that Lamberto has been known to them for at least one year.

Lamberto brought down Sharpe Lewis of the Goodrich Program, and they sat before a Federal Court Judge in his chambers and were interviewed.

Following the interview, yet another review of Lamberto's application is made, this time for final approval or disapproval. In Lamberto's case approval was granted and his name was set down in the calendar to appear for the swearing in ceremony which is scheduled as the need arises. There were three sessions this February alone.

15 nationalities

And so on Monday, February 26, 1973, Lamberto Victtorica, formerly of Mexico City, Mexico presented himself before the District Federal Court of Omaha along with 25 other persons — Filipinos, Italians, Germans, Koreans, Chinese — all in all representing 15 different countries.

The almost citizens are required to return their alien resident identification cards and sign papers.

They are assembled in a courtroom; an attorney represents them in their appearance before the court because the process of naturalization is by law a legal petition made to the United States through its court system.

"No pictures will be permitted," the attorney warns, should some enthusiastic relative take a photograph inside the courtroom.

The judge enters and everyone stands while he is seated. The judge then recognizes the group's lawyer who says that "I have 26 people who want to become American citizens." He names each one and they stand.

An assistant then asks the group to denounce all the rights and privileges and obligations they once held to their former country.

Enter Boy Scout

Lamberto says, "Yes, I do" along with other members of the standing group.

They then are asked to recite the Pledge of Allegiance. A Boy Scout leads each new citizen of the United States to the Judge's stand where the judge congratulates each one of them.

"When I took that oath and looked at the United States flag, I could see Mexico's flag in its place," Lamberto said.

"I was deeply involved — concerned — I guess I was emotional," he said. "I realized that I was forever severing my ties with Mexico, giving up my responsibilities to her and giving them to another country."

"You know I haven't told my mother (Lamberto's father is dead) yet. I don't know exactly what my mother will do. I think her sense of pride will be hurt. But I think what will disturb her most is that she will see this as the loss of one man from Mexico. One less person there but I see it as one more person here," he said.

A SOLUTION TO RECORD POLLUTION

Just like everything and everyone, your records can suffer from pollution, too. All sorts of funny little things (molecules, amoebas, dust, hair, exhaust particles, smoke, lint, footprints) can build up in the grooves of your record. And, when that happens, sound quality, as well as your valued records, begins to disintegrate. The answer? It's simple: the DISC-WASHER KIT from your local TEAM Electronics Center. The DISCWASHER is a complete record cleaning system that removes fluid, solubilized matter and "foreign particles" (like Russian Dust, Chinese Lint, French Amoebas, etc.) from your discs. And it's a lot safer than a cafeteria dishwasher. Ask your TEAM Electronics dealer for a demonstration. And do your part in putting an end to record pollution.

UNO Matmen Second UNO Win Worth the Waiting To Wayne in Districts

How They Finished

Wayne	93 1/2	Chadron	33
UNO	73 1/2	Dana	2
Peru	48	Midland	0
Kearney	43

UNO begins its run at national wrestling honors this weekend as the Mavericks travel to Sioux City for the NAIA National meet.

The national competition begins Thursday and will run until Saturday night. Last year, the Mavericks surprised with a strong second place finish.

An oddity, though, occurred last Saturday as Wayne State edged past UNO to earn the District 11 championship at Wayne.

Wayne had four individual champs to UNO's three.

Coach Mike Palmisano conceded that while Wayne is "a stronger team when you match their ten against our ten, we didn't get any of the breaks you normally count on. The other teams just didn't beat the Wayne kids to help us out.

It was a win well worth waiting for.

That could best describe UNO's 89-88 overtime conquest of Hastings in the first game of the NAIA District 11 playoffs in the UNO field house Saturday night.

The Mavericks, appearing in only their third district playoff since 1945, beat Doane 66-62 in 1967 for their last playoff win.

But, while it took six years to get another shot at a playoff victory, Bob Hanson's squad had little time to savor their win.

The series shifted back to Hastings Monday night with a Tuesday contest scheduled if needed. Press deadlines make it impossible to report these results. Watch Friday's Gateway.

In a close called contest, the Mavericks jumped out to early leads only to have the winningest college team in Nebraska come back.

Both teams had two players foul out of action as 25 infractions were called against the Broncos and 34 whistles caught UNO fouls.

Hastings had two key chances late in the contest but both times Mike Sitorius missed free throws.

His first miss came with no time showing in regulation play. UNO's Dennis Fisher was called for jumping into Sitorius in an attempt to hit a long, desperate last second shot.

Hastings had tied at 80-all on Paul Thomas' turn around jumper with three seconds to play. Fisher's shot fell short.

Sitorius went to the line but his shot hit the rim and bounced off.

Mike also had a shot for forging a 89-89 tie at the end of the first overtime period after being fouled by Cal Forrest with four seconds to play.

Sitorius made the first shot in a one-and-one situation but his second didn't go in.

John Funke, the Mavericks 6-6 post man, grabbed the rebound, held it for a second, and then threw it down court safely beyond the reach of any player.

Funke was the unlikely hero earlier in overtime as his steal and lay-in gave UNO a 89-87 lead.

John finished with six points and ten rebounds but spent most of the first half on the bench after picking up three quick fouls.

Fouls plagued the Mavericks cause as Funke and his replacement, Pat Roehrig, had three quick infractions within the first ten minutes of play.

Enter Randy Worth, UNO's 6-4 rugged forward. Worth, a starter in the corner the first half of the year, played exceptionally well in the middle. He finished with nine points.

Cal Forrest topped the Mavericks with 26 points including four in the overtime. He had ten in the first half, including eight in the last two minutes of play which helped UNO to a 47-43 halftime advantage.

A quick string of points at the start of second half play gave the Mavericks a 59-51 lead midway through the half.

But UNO hit a frigid spell that saw only Fisher hit a basket in a six minute period and gradually surrendered the lead.

The Broncos, behind the shooting of Thomas, both Mike and Pat Sitorius and Brad Schneider, held a 75-69 advantage with seven minutes to play.

Baskets by Forrest, Fisher and Kevin Nelson pulled the Mavericks within one, 76-75. Two free throws gave them the lead.

Dave Ksiazek, the Mavericks only senior, had one of his best games of the year, hitting 12 points while controlling UNO's floor game.

Kearney Spoils Runners' Finale

By Dave Coulton

Kearney State soured UNO's indoor track finale last Friday, dropping the Mavericks 76-65 in the field house. Marymount finished third with 10 points.

"They just ran a lot better than we did tonight," said coach Lloyd Cardwell.

The Antelopes were up for this one and let everyone know when they won an event. Kearney jumped out to a twenty point lead half way through the meet.

The Mavericks rallied back to within nine points but fell apart when Kearney placed 1-3 in the 880. The Mavericks had needed at least first and third in that event to keep within striking distance.

Freshman hurdler Frank Borowiak gave the best performance for the Mavericks winning both the 60 high hurdles and 60 lows. Tim Newberry, UNO's other hurdler, placed third in both events as well as third in the high jump.

Hank Klauschie was the only winner in the field events for UNO. He won the pole vault at fourteen feet but Kearney took second, third and fourth to out score UNO 6-5 in that event.

In the other field events, Greg Davis took second place in the long jump. Bob Buchta was barely beaten in the shot put to with senior Jerry Goerig placing fourth in his last performance in the field house.

Tom Schrad was second in a tightly contested fight in the high jump.

In the running events, Kearney showed strength in both the sprints and distance races.

Kearney was 1-4 in the mile, while UNO's Tom Mahr placed third.

Kearney continued to pile up points with a 1-4 finish in the 60-yard dash, an event in which UNO was expected to be stronger than Kearney.

Sam Evans and George Davis were second and third respectively.

Davis, UNO's top sprinter, seemed to get a late start recorded an equal time with freshman Evans at :6.6. Evans has shown steady improvement.

Martinez Deserves Top Spot

Paul Martinez has contributed much of himself to UNO wrestling.

The only senior on the Maverick mat squad, Paul has toiled and sweated in the infernally hot wrestling room, first under Don Benning and now under Mike Palmisano.

Besides sweat, Paul has also had to have a knee operated on and just this past season spent a month with a case of badly bruised ribs.

These are just two "major" injuries that are added onto the hundreds of aches and pains he has known as a wrestler.

Yes, Martinez has contributed a lot to UNO, specifically, and collegiate wrestling, in general.

One has to wonder what UNO and collegiate wrestling can do to repay him?

A start of the payment of the debt would occur this Saturday night if fate as well as Paul's ability would allow him to win a NAIA National Championship.

Martinez, a two-time Nebraska State champ from Omaha South High School, spent four years in the Army before coming to UNO.

He's been to national tournaments before. As a sophomore, he managed to finish sixth.

Last year, he advanced all the way to the finals only to become a pin victim of Barry Casper of Northland, Minn.

This experience could be the key to Martinez's eventual march to the championship.

"Paul's placed twice in national competition," Palmisano said. "The experience should really help in Sioux City."

His experience has accounted for 66 victories over the four years, including 16 this year as both a 118 and 126-pounder.

The only drawback Paul has entering the tournament is the fact that he had to sit around with the injured ribs for almost a month.

Before the district tournaments, Paul stated that "my ribs are okay. I'll be ready by district time, that's when it really counts."

He was ready, winning three matches easily last Saturday afternoon in Wayne. The last, a 13-3 sweep by Kearney's Dan Mowrey, was the second district title he's earned.

"Paul's wrestling real well now," Palmisano said. "He looked real good Saturday."

Mike said that Martinez should be ready both mentally and physically. "I'd like to see him get into the finals. He's worked for it."

I'd also like to see him get into the finals and bring home the only honor that has eluded him in a four-year career.

It would be the start of payment on full.

If Martinez or any other Maverick earns a top spot, he will join a select group of eight that has already achieved the top rung on the NAIA wrestling ladder.

All eight have earned their titles since 1964.

George Crenshaw was the first, grabbing the crown in the 167 pound division in 1964.

The incomparable Roy Washington (145-50) earned the first of his three titles in 1968, joining Wendell Hakanson (160) as national champ.

Brother Mel joined Roy as top dog in 1969 along with Curlee Alexander (115).

In 1970, Roy joined Bernie Hospodka (190) as champions with Mel finishing second as the Mavericks won the NAIA National Championship.

The next year, Mel Washington closed out a tremendous career by winning his second championship at 177.

The two latest enrollees to the "hall of fame" came last year when Phil Gonzales and Gary Kipfmiller (hwt) earned their titles.

Gonzales turned the trick at 126 pounds as a freshman.

Palmisano stated that it takes five or six men to finish in the top six to earn a national championship.

In 1969, the Mavericks had three first place finishers, a third and a fourth and still managed not to win.

The year they did win it all, 1970, saw two firsts, a second and two thirds contribute to the win.

In all, UNO has had 14 men place in the NAIA meets.

Joining the six already mentioned are Martinez, Landy Waller, Dennis Cozad, Reggie Williams, Mel Melcher and Carl West.

Matmen Second

"But, we wrestled just about as well as we could have," Palmisano explained. Steady Paul Martinez (118), Phil Gonzales (126) and freshman Don Cahill (177) earned top honors for the Mavericks.

Palmisano credits the three with "doing outstanding jobs."

The districts, though, is not a qualifying meet for the national tournament. This means that Palmisano will be able to take a full squad to Sioux City.

Duane Kjeldgaard, who was dropped 2-0 in the 167 pound finals by Wayne's national champion Ken Monroe, earned words of praise from his coach.

"Duane did another outstanding job," Mike said. Kjeldgaard earned a spot in the meet with a best of three victory over teammate Terry Zegers in wrestle-offs last week.

The second year Maverick coach also said Randy Lecuona (158), Charlie Mancuso (150) and Dale Rubesh (Hwt.) all wrestled well.

Rubesh, who beat Tony Eller to wrestle in Saturday's districts, pinned Tom Alcorn of Chadron in 1:51 to earn third place honors.

Martinez earned his crown with a 14-4 victory over Dan Mowrey of Kearney State. This is his second straight district title.

Gonzales, defending national champion at 126, dropped Jim Meyer of Wayne in a 13-3 match to win. He also repeated.

Palmisano said that barring upsets in wrestle-offs that he would have basically the same lineup in Sioux City that he took to Wayne.

He was disappointed with the way Curt Bundy (134) and Fred Sacco (190) wrestled at Wayne. "They just didn't wrestle up to par."

The Mavericks also didn't get any points at 142.

Palmisano is playing with the idea of moving Bob Stitt, the second winningest Maverick this year, up to 134 for the national meet.

Stitt, a natural 118-pounder, is a strong wrestler according to Palmisano. And while Mike concedes that Bob could bow out early with the weight jump, the experience Stitt would gain from just competing in the national meet would be worth it.

This would move Bundy up to 142.

Gonzales' chances of repeating as champ will receive a stern test as five out of the six top qualifiers from last year return. He will be top-seeded.

"It's always harder to repeat as champ," Palmisano said. "Everybody is going for you. They all want to beat the national champion. They also remember that Phillip beat them last year."

But still, Palmisano rates Gonzales' chances as excellent.

Paul Martinez is the Mavericks best other bid for individual honors. He finished second last year.

"Paul is mentally prepared plus in above average condition," Palmisano stated. "It also helps he's been here before. His experience should help him."

"I'm hoping he gets into the finals. He's worked hard for it."

Palmisano, while refusing to say what the Mavericks chances were in the meet, added that in a national competition things are "completely different."

"To win a national championship, you have to have five or six wrestlers finish in the top six."

"We have the potential to do this. It should be very interesting."

Last year's second place finish was achieved with only six wrestlers. Gary Kipfmiller was the other UNO champion.

surprise with Kearney coming on strong in the last lap to finish 1-2. Greg Rosenbaum and Mark Wayne were third and fourth respectively in an event the two UNO runners have dominated during the season.

Davis started the Maverick rally in the 440. Davis turned in a time of :51, seven tenths of a second from record time. Bill Woods finished fourth for UNO.

In the two mile UNO got some help from Marymount. Marymount placed 1-3 to keep Kearney runners from earning higher places. Jack Schroer, UNO's only entry finished second in what turned out to be a tough race.

Wayne and Tom Mahr came through with a 1-2 finish for the Mavericks in the 1,000. Wayne won his specialty in a time of 2:18.5.

The 880 saw Dave Micheels passed in the last lap by Kearney's Dave Kulich, who won with a time of 1:56.1. Rossenbaum took fourth for UNO.

Kearney finished the night by upsetting UNO's relay team in a close race. Kearney's Bryan Nordin, second in the 440, held off Davis in the final lap to beat the Maverick's relay team by two tenths of a second.
